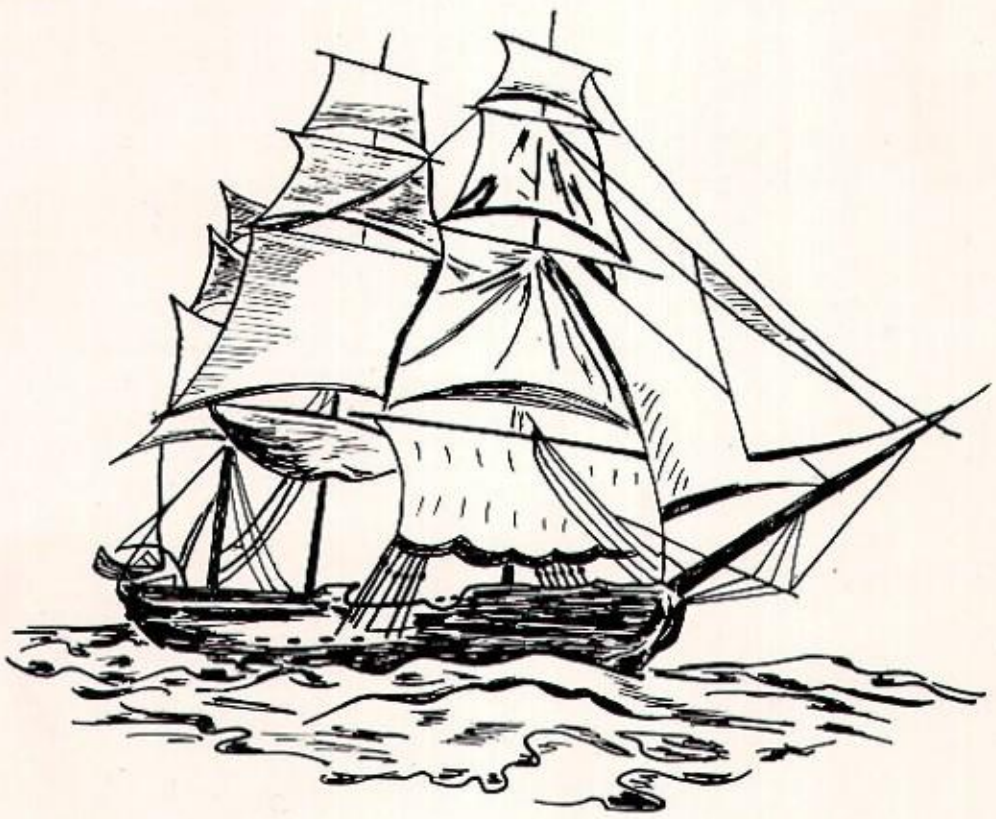
DEDICATION

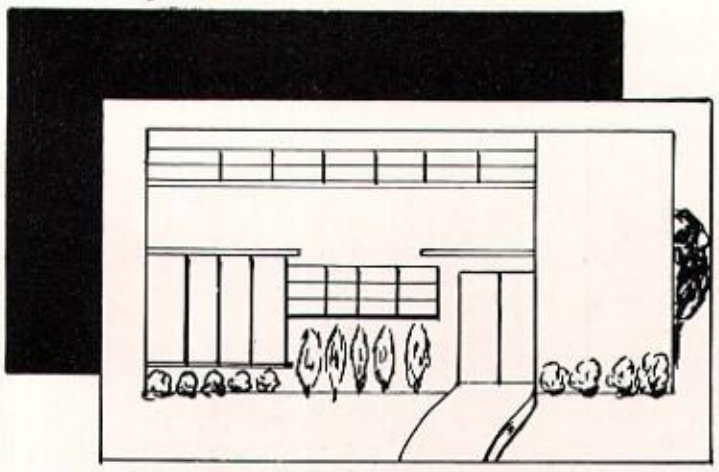
Hail to Carnegie, our praises we sing to thee.
Hail Alma Mater, we'll love thee eternally.
We love thee with honor, glory, and spirit,
praise thee in all we do.
And we will be faithful to thee forever, Alma Mater true.
Hail to Carnegie, we pledge now our loyalty.
Hail Alma Mater, thy children sing praise to thee.

We dedicate this book to the alumni of Carnegie High School – from the first brave handful in 1896 through sixty years of growth. We are proud of our alumni, and we are grateful to them for giving us that history and tradition which we so greatly honor and of which we so proudly boast.

Our high school has a long and colorful history. This history and tradition were made by the students and teachers, made with their ideals and efforts. For over half a century, one building served as the home of our high school. It housed the ambitions, ideals, efforts, and thoughts of every student.

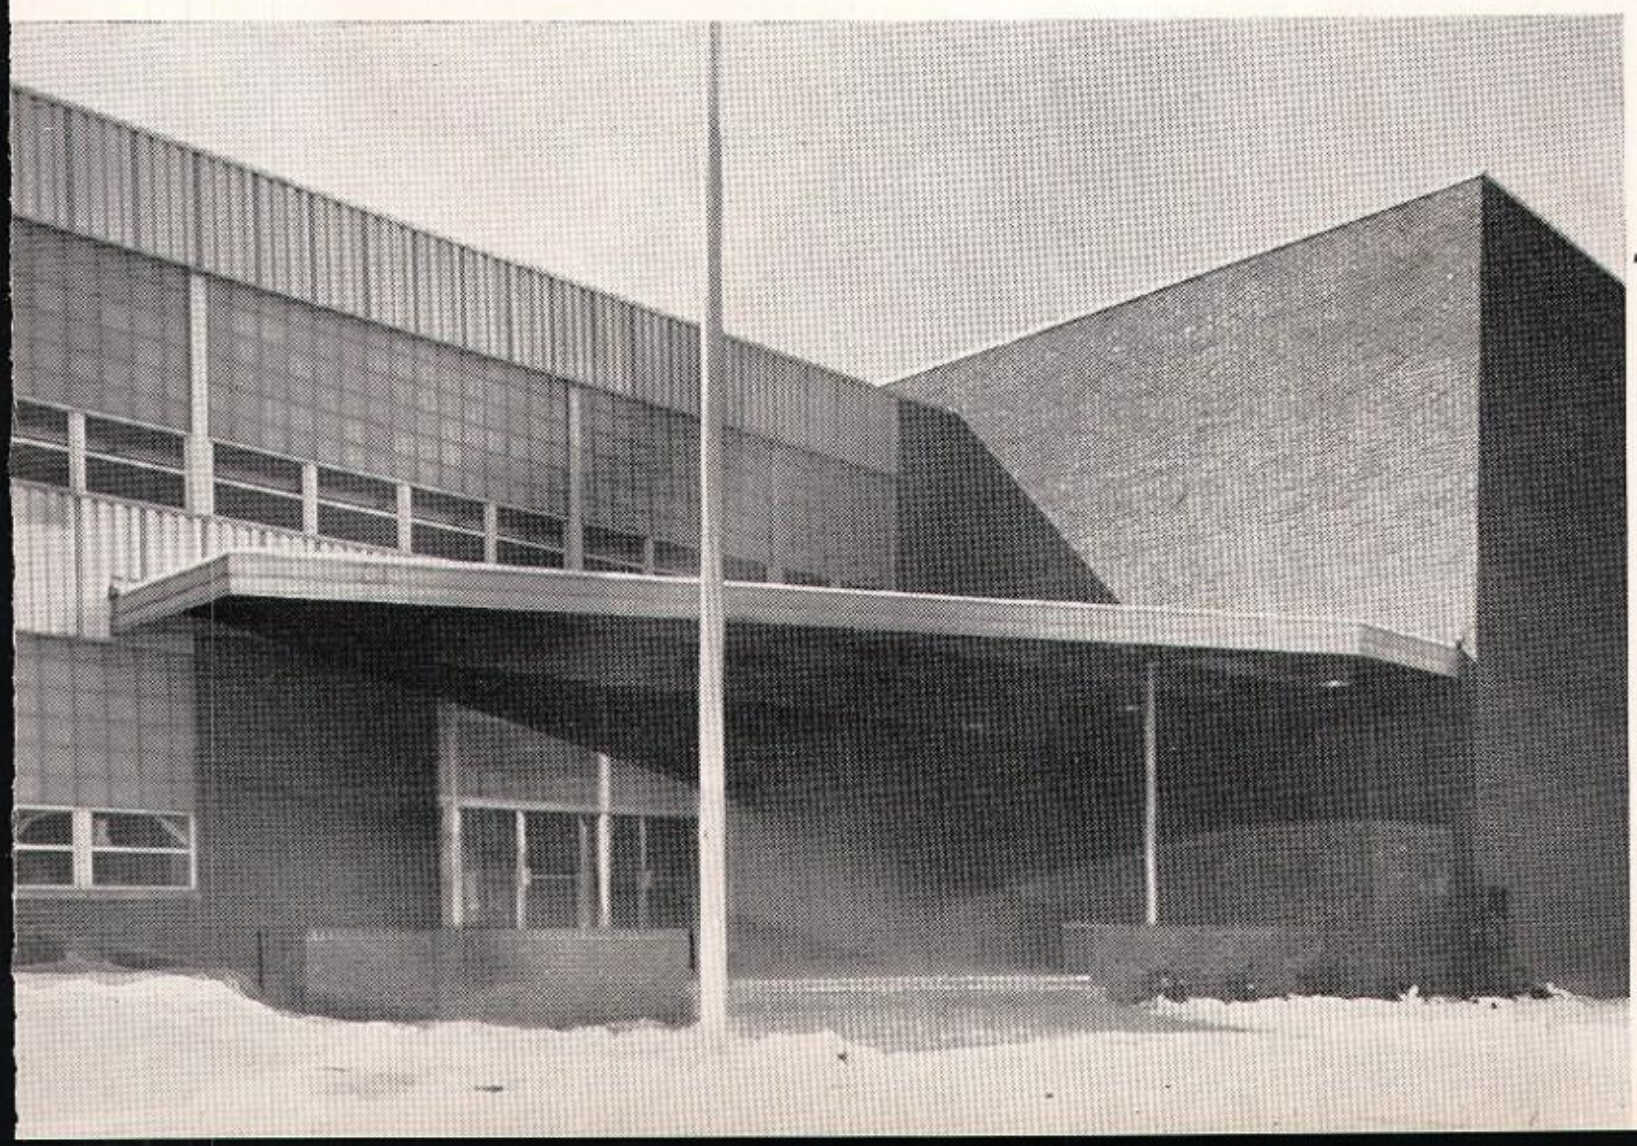
Now that building is gone. One page in our history is completed, and a fresh one is started. But though buildings change, the spirit remains the same. Though we have left the first real home of C.H.S., we have brought with us to the new building that eager ambition, that true desire to better ourselves, and that spirit of loyalty that have been common to the halls of our alma mater for sixty fruitful years.





The history of our Alma Mater from its beginning through a steady, unfaltering growth of . . .

60 Years



60 Years

In the year 1894 Chartiers and Mansfield boroughs were united into one borough called Carnegie in honor of Andrew Carnegie, the great financier and steel master.

One year later a joint school board of six men was elected to consider the new borough's educational needs. They decided an institution of more advanced standing than the existing schools should be established. Many citizens of the borough opposed such a school because they felt that the resulting taxes would be too high. Some felt that the unpreparedness of the children would make it difficult for them to undertake advanced work; and, also, that there was not a centrally located building which could adequately house such an institution. The board, firm in their feeling that such an institution was a necessity in order to provide high educational advantages for the youth of the community, continued their preparations for opening a high school. In September, 1896, Thomas J. George, who had been elected principal of the second ward school, gave up that office to become principal and organizer of the high school. Fortunately, the W. C. T. U. building was secured to house the new high school. This building was located at the present site of the Elks' Hall and became the third high school in Allegheny County. At first, the high school education of an individual was to last only three years, but a fourth year was added. At that time pupils from Midway and Oakdale came to our high school for their senior year.

The first class was comprised of students eager for a higher education. The faculty consisted of Mr. George and Miss Florence P. Davis. During the first year two literary societies were organized. They were named the "Philo" and the "Potter." Money obtained by a small admission charge for their performances was invested in pictures, pianos, victrolas, and some statues, although most statues were donated by local clubs. Every student belonged to one or the other of these groups, and there was intense feeling among members, such as the rivalry today among modern college fraternity members. When these clubs presented their debates to the students in later years, the library was filled to capacity.

Carnegie High School's football team made its appearance in 1897. The squad was dressed, according to the times, in padded suits, with nose and shin guards. Their "never quit" spirit still survives in the spirit of the team members even to this day.

Twelve students made up the first graduating class in 1899. The commencement program of that year must have been very interesting indeed, for it included a debate on a very touchy problem at the time, "Should Women Have the Right of Suffrage?" The two debaters were Keturah Reno and Mary Lea. The first valedictorian was Clyde Atchinson of the classical course. Also on the program was an address by Dr. J. P. Duff.

The commercial course, which still ranks high in importance in C. H. S., was introduced in 1904 by Professor R. S. Doyle. It included stenography, typing, commercial arithmetic, commercial law, and English. Also in that year was the first class basketball team. The outfits worn by the players resembled more or less those worn in football today.

Mr. George became the first superintendent of the Carnegie public schools in 1911, when the superintendency was created.

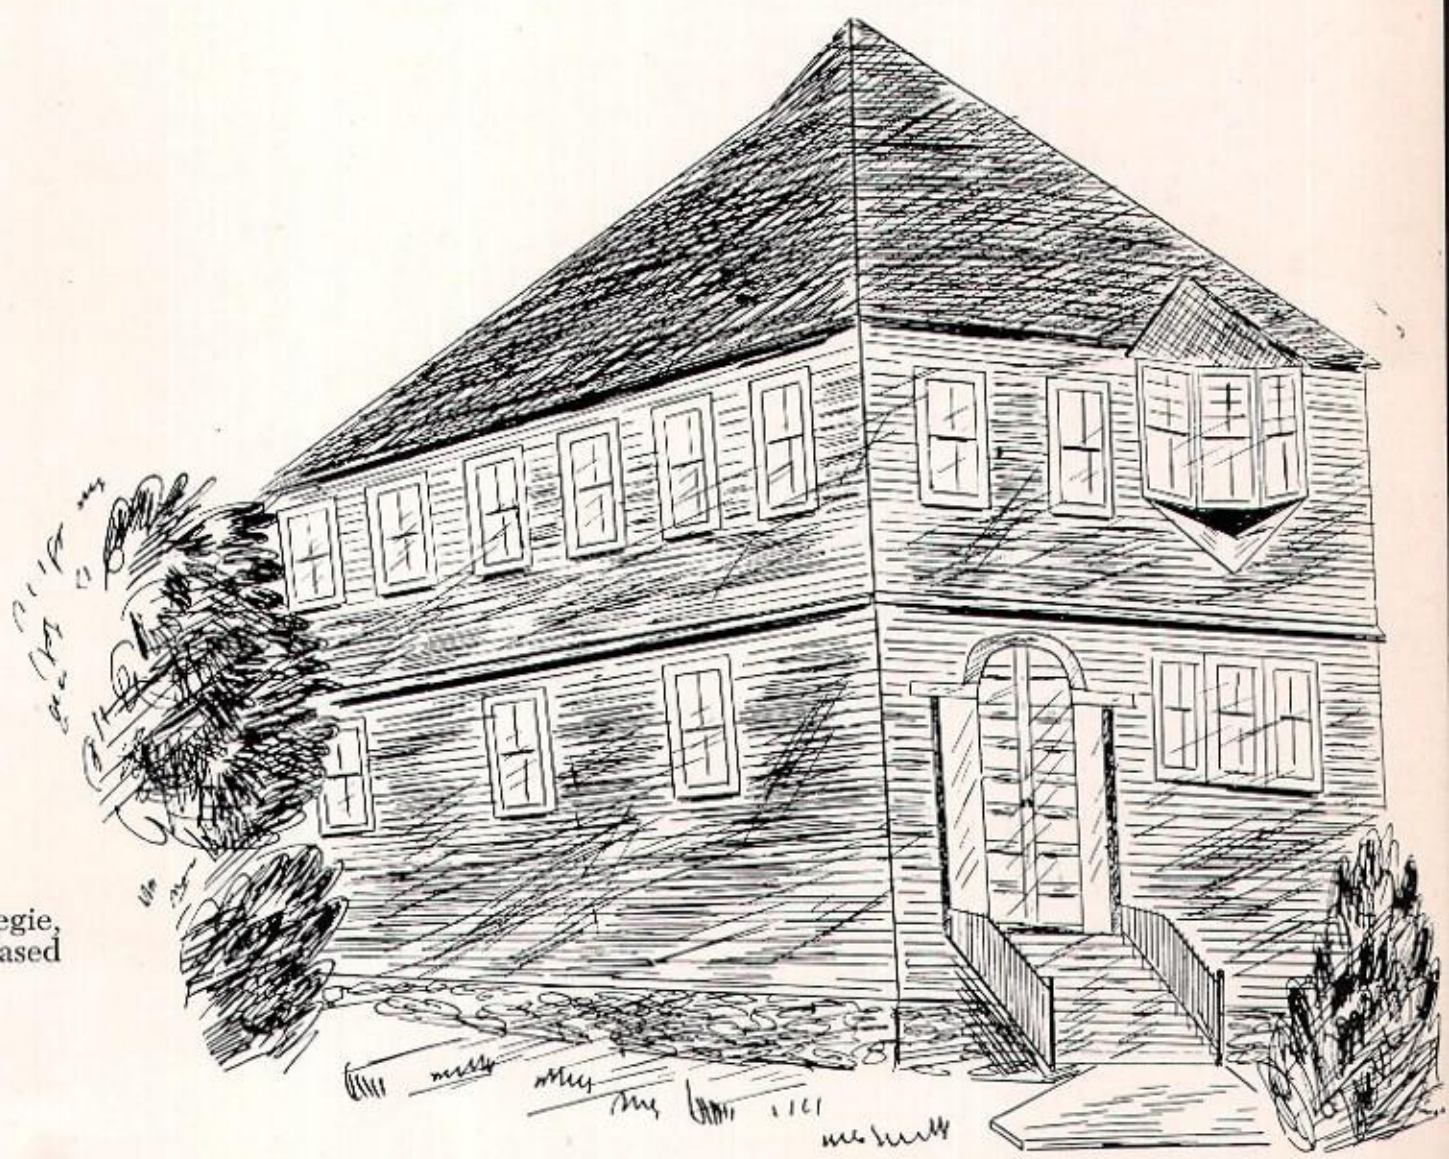
The standing of the high school in 1908 is revealed by the following, quoted from an official report of W. S. Hertzog, state high school inspector:

"Character of instruction, very good; spirit of school and community, very excellent; average age of graduating class, 17½; attitude of school directors, very excellent; very strong work is being done. This is the strongest three-year high school I have visited in the state."

The orchestra, which had a humble beginning in 1912, was the first organization for instrumental music in C. H. S. Prior to this, there were various small groups of instrumentalists formed by students. Since this time music in all its forms has had an important part in C. H. S., and at present there is a swing band comparable to an orchestra.

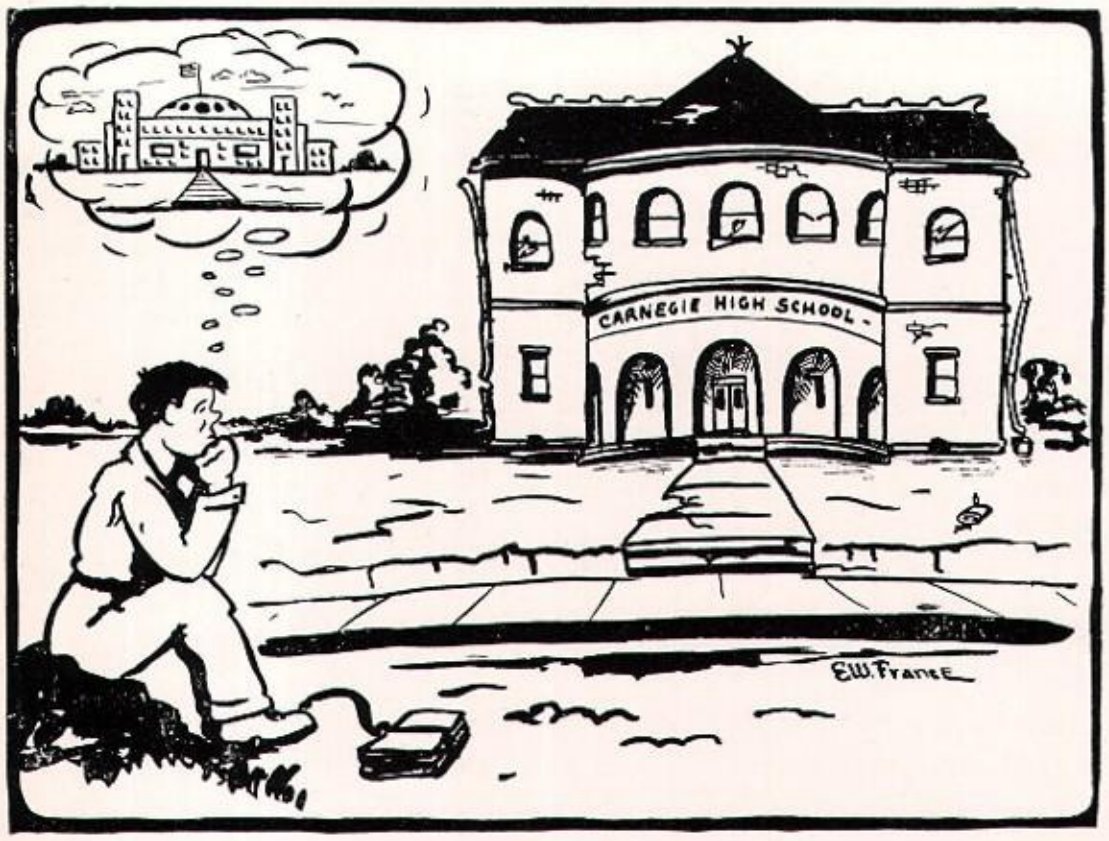
The first operetta ever produced by the high school was given in the early spring of 1913. It was produced solely by the senior class and was held in 1929. When Mr. Glasser first came here, there was no paid coach for the football games, and our chief rival was Crafton. In 1913 after three quarters, the game was called because of a terrible fight caused by a biased referee. In those days there was only one official, instead of the present three.

One annual was published before the first VOYAGER, and that was in 1915. The name of that first yearbook was The Censor and a policy, which has since been abandoned, that of soliciting funds, was used to get that first yearbook published. William Love and Mike Bachrach were instrumental in getting those funds collected.



The first high school in Carnegie, located on Elk Street, was leased from the W.C.T.U.

Then and Now . .



This cartoon, found in the files of the Carnegie Signal-Item, hints at how long we have been hoping for a new high school.

The Mandolin Club was organized on January 29, 1915. The G Clef and Glee Clubs also came into being in 1915. Girls' athletics really had no part in C. H. S. until 1916, when a girls' basketball team was formed. The team played a schedule similar to the boys' varsity.

The year 1924-1925 was a momentous one in C. H. S. Our yearbook, the VOYAGER, came into existence in 1925. The magazine campaign, which still goes strong at the beginning of each school year and which is sponsored by the senior class, had its origin in 1925. Since the publishing of the second VOYAGER the senior class, by all of their hard work, has helped meet the annual deficit. Mr. Covey organized the first girls' swimming team in that year. The girls' basketball coach, Miss Agnes Stoughton, had a small turnout for the team, and as a result, they lost the majority of their games.

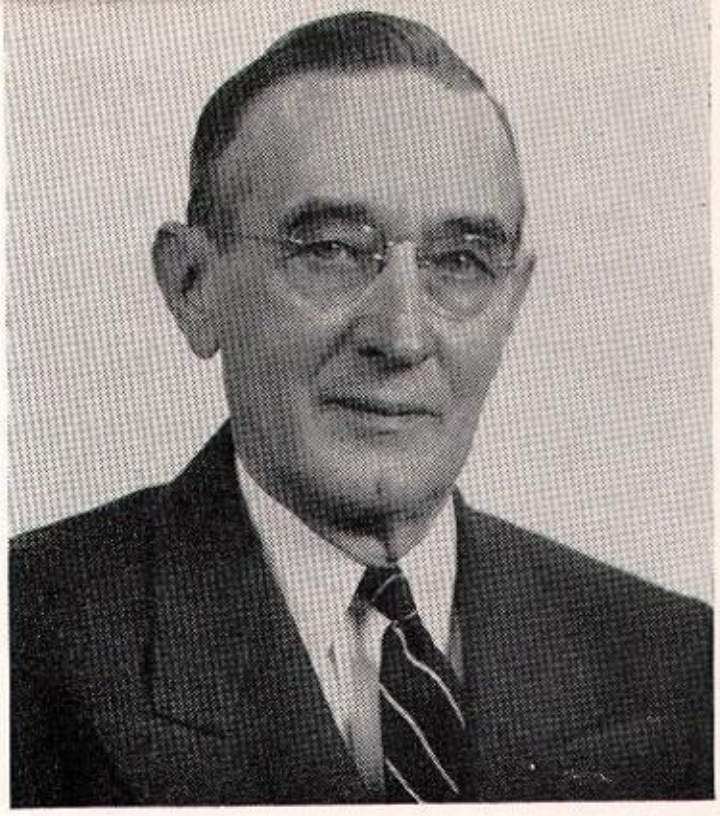
Helen Prosser, the artist for the 1927 VOYAGER, designed the ship which is the source of the engraving on the standard high school ring.

The athletic field was first used for contests by the football team in the fall of 1929. Fourteen commencements have been held on the athletic field without being postponed on account of the weather.

Under the direction of Walter H. Cameron, present-day director, the first band of C. H. S. prepared to hold its first concert in the spring of 1930. The next season they played at the football games, and uniforms were purchased in 1931. There were seventy-seven members enrolled in the first band.

Mr. R. E. Knarr, principal from 1926 to 1936, began many policies to strengthen the already firm foundation of Carnegie High.

. . . History in the Making



Mr. Norman L. Glasser, superintendent from 1926-1952, maintained Carnegie's prestige and high academic standards throughout his administration.

The Senior Choral Club, consisting of seventy members, made its debut in 1931. The choosing of the May Queen and her attendants was sponsored by this group. It was similar to our present mixed choir.

Athletic management of C. H. S. dates back to 1921 when the Athletic Association was organized by Coach Weaver for the purpose of supervising athletic activities of the school. In 1931 they started the policy of giving letters to varsity athletes.

The ever popular G. A. A. was formed in 1932 under the sponsorship of Miss Corbett. It was in 1932, as it still is, one of the largest and most active groups in C. H. S.

The baseball team was the most successful team that year, winning the WPIAL championship.

One day early in the school year of 1933 music emanated from the upper halls of the building. It was the beginning of the Senior Ensemble, whose members studied music more difficult than that usually studied. Because of the increased popularity of vocal music, a male double quartet was organized in 1935. After many years it is still an outstanding vocal group, made up of the best male voices from the Choir.

The first standard ring was used first by the class of 1933 or 1934.

A chapter of the National Honor Society was installed in C. H. S. with the sole purpose of honoring students who had attained high scholastic, service, leadership, and honor standards. It is still the most respected and honored group in Carnegie High. This same year, 1936, saw also the fortieth anniversary of the school.

With Ruggerio Aldisert as editor, The See had its beginning in the spring of 1937. Before this a weekly "Carhighwee" was published. Up until 1954-1955, when it became bi-monthly, The See was a weekly newspaper.

Desiring a nickname for C. H. S. in 1939, a poll was taken and a student vote. The winning name was "Little Tartans." Orange and black have been the colors for as far back as anyone can remember.

We may think nowadays that majorettes have been in C. H. S. for years, but they are fairly new. There had been a drum major for several years, but in 1940 the first drum majorettes made their appearance.

Our 1940 football team was really terrific — eight wins, one tie, and one defeat.

Flag twirlers were added to the band in 1942; also in that year the band played for men leaving under the Selective Service Act. Musically, C. H. S. had three additions in 1942 — the A Cappella Choir, the Triple Trio, and the Mixed Ensemble.

A club now non-existant in C. H. S. was started 1942 to provide extra-curricular work for art students interested in advanced work such as making scenery. It was called the Junior Scarab Club.

The Tri-Hi-Y was started in 1946 and since its organization has grown to be one of the most popular in the school. Katherine Nolf was the first sponsor, and Eleanor McDonald was the first president. During the first year they secured canned goods for war-torn Europe. The Robinson Township Tri-Hi-Y officiated at the induction of the new Carnegie Club. Also in 1946 two C. H. S. students participated in the Junior Town Meeting of the air. They were Charlene Tohey and Don Yourd. The topic of discussion was a very interesting one, "What place should women have in post-war industry?"

In 1950 to help the cheerleaders cheer our football team on to victory, the Pep Club, with Miss Walton as sponsor, was organized. This club was proof of the true loyalty of the students to their team.

The French Club was organized in 1951, with Miss Coogle as sponsor and her dog Bijou (no, not a French poodle!) as mascot.

Carnegie had something to be proud of in their sports department this year. Skirpan went on to the WPIAL wrestling tournament and was crowned champion of the 165-pound division. He then went on to Johnstown to compete in the PIAA, where he lost a tough one that would have made him state champion. This year was the first year of the newly organized junior high at Harding School.

Plans were started for a new high school in 1952, but it took a few years to make these plans a reality. That year was the first for our capable present-day superintendent, Dr. Roy Hickes. It also saw the retirement of Mr. Glasser, who had served forty-seven years in Pennsylvania, with thirty-eight of those years in Carnegie. He was well loved by all, and it was with regret that C. H. S. said good-by to him.

Bosko Skirpan made it this year! He was the first state wrestling champion in the history of C. H. S. 1952 was also our year for football. Regardless of other games, the one with Scott is the most important. We won by the score of 33-6. Wonderful!

In 1953-54, Mr. Lloyd Garrett became the new principal of the Harding Junior High, replacing the beloved Miss Jane Fleming. Also in this school year a new Hi-Y club, the Novus, and a new Tri-Hi-Y club, the Golden Rule, were organized because of the popularity of the Y clubs.

The first junior class play, presented by the class of 1954, was "The Curious Savage." Carnegie again went to the wrestling WPIAL in the persons of Chuck Knepper, Fred Sentner, and Paul Sentner.

Mr. H. H. Lee accepted the job of chemistry instructor at Washington and Jefferson College and had to leave us. We were all sad to see him go, and we will not soon forget him. In this same year, 1955, the last class was graduated from the old building. What a sad thing to think that this meant the end of the building which holds precious memories for many. One of the most wonderful people and a true friend to the students taught her last year, after teaching Latin and English in C. H. S. for many years. It was with sadness that we bade Miss Agnes Nesbitt good-by at an assembly in her honor. She is one teacher who will remain in the hearts of many. She, along with the seniors, walked down the athletic field at graduation as usual, but it was her last time as senior advisor.

1955 was a year for changes! Mr. James E. Knarr, who had taught at C. H. S., returned as principal in place of Mr. Lee. His father had also been principal of our school in past years. Musically, we saw a small change; the Triple Trio was changed to the Girls' Ensemble. There was an increase of three girls in order to give the group more volume and to allow them to sing four-part music. In sports, basketball was tops. The varsity had a terrific team, and the "B" squad, the varsity of 1956, started their reign as basketball leaders in the section; they went undefeated. Fred Sentner represented our wrestlers in WPIAL and advanced to the PIAA, where he lost.

Now we are up to the present year of 1956, with a long history behind us. Things of joy, sorrow, gaiety and never-to-be-forgotten mischiefs that have occurred in C. H. S. are recalled. No one who has attended Carnegie High School, whether in the old or new building, shall ever forget it, and we shall always cherish fond memories of our school days when all the world was green and we were very young.

ADMINISTRATION

Mr. Thomas Jefferson George
Principal (1897-1911)
Superintendent (1911-1926)
Died — 1931

No man ever devoted himself to his profession with greater singleness of purpose than Thomas Jefferson George. His high moral seriousness, his spirit of work, and his strict discipline enabled him to educate his students not only in their regular schoolwork but in the orderly habits of living. His own loyalty and perseverance instilled in the students a high sense of loyalty to the school.

But in spite of his belief in strenuous work, Mr. George was not a pedant. So sincere was "Pappy" George's interest in the students that he knew each one by his first name and would shake hands on meeting. He would follow the activities of his students after graduation and knew what many graduates were doing. Each Christmas saw him playing Santa Claus, buying the biggest red apples and giving one to each boy and girl. One of the courses that Mr. George advocated was mental arithmetic to make his students more alert and able to think more accurately. Through his efforts Carnegie High School earned in its early days a reputation of very high scholastic standing.

Even though he has been dead for twenty-five years, he is still remembered as a man of hard work, high purpose, and absolute integrity. Carnegie High School has gone a long way in sixty years, and over 3,700 students have been graduated from its halls. Yet that spirit of hard work, loyalty, service, and strong character begun by Mr. Thomas J. George lives on as strong as ever in the halls of our alma mater.

Dr. Roy M. Hickes, who attended, taught at, coached at, and was principal of Glassport High School, came to us in 1951. Dr. Hickes believes we as students "should always better our academic achievements and have increased recognition of the rights and prerogatives of others and develop personal qualities which eventually lead to good citizenship." Although he is exceptionally busy, he is considered one of our best friends, and this is something that really is a necessity if a school system is to be a success. This very erudite man has introduced many new subjects into the curriculum which have helped raise the standards of Carnegie High School. Many new subjects and teachers have been introduced including a librarian, a special home economics teacher who is also a dietitian, a high school art course, and a more complete shop course for boys interested in manual training. In the past few years a drivers' education course and a much-needed guidance counselor have been added. Future years will probably see more courses of value added.

On the shoulders of Dr. Hickes rests the task of constant advancement. One step forward is our new high school, which has some of the best facilities and equipment available. His job has been a hard one; he has had to act as administrator and to help in orienting school policies and pupils.

Dr. Hickes is not only well known as school administrator but is also known to be very much interested in community activities. He is the father of twin daughters, who attend grade school.

He has been in Carnegie only five years, and yet it seems we have known him much longer. The class of 1956 would like to thank him for all the time and effort he has put forth to mold our lives into a better and more desirable form.

Before coming to C. H. S., Dr. Fleischer taught social studies at Edgewood for three years. Prior to that, he attended Grove City College. He earned his bachelor's, master's and doctor's degrees at the University of Pittsburgh.

Dr. Fleischer is looking forward to a long stay in Carnegie High School. We know that our high school has become a vital part of his life, just as he has become a part of Carnegie High School. He has guided the sophomores into regular routines and has given advice to upper classmen concerning advanced education and future occupations.

He has won the admiration and respect of the student body during his first year as principal at Carnegie. We hope this is only the beginning of a long career as principal of our school.

Miss Barbara Williams

Miss Barbara Williams, a graduate of the class of 1950, has served as secretary to Mr. Lee and Mr. Knarr, and is currently Dr. Fleischer's secretary. She is well known by all the students and does many favors for us. Barbara enjoys her work and does a wonderful job heading the office. She takes an interest in all the school activities and can be seen at the school's sporting events. She is sponsor of the Golden Rule Tri-Hi-Y, which keeps her very busy. We are all in agreement when we say that Barb, with her splendid personality and high calibre of work, will keep C. H. S. happy for many years to come.

Miss Dolores Dombrowski

Dolores Dombrowski, Dr. Hickes's new secretary, was graduated from Carnegie High School only last year. She took the place of Ruth Walton, who is now on a leave of absence. Dee says that, having worked at the high school, she is now able to see both the teachers' and the students' points of view. Dee likes to play the piano and paint in oils, and she tries her hand at bowling with the teachers.

Guidance Counselor, Psychologist

Mr. Match is now ending his fifth year at Carnegie High School. During these years he has taken a personal interest in the future of each of the students. He has listened to many problems and has guided many in the choice of college or profession. He has informally talked with each senior individually, giving the information and personal advice each needed and appreciated.

Mr. Match studied at the University of Pittsburgh, where he earned his degrees of Bachelor of Science and Master of Education.

Board of Education

Through the untiring efforts of the Board of Education the new Carnegie High School on Franklin Avenue is now a reality. These nine men have the responsibility of seeing that all our school functions are carried out properly. We are sure the people of Carnegie are extremely proud of this group. They have done their work well and, in doing so, have had the welfare of each student in mind. Any problem brought to their attention will receive careful consideration, and an attempt is made to solve it.

Years from now, as students walk through the halls of Carnegie's new high school, we hope they will be as proud of it as we are today. The beautiful gymnasium, the clean and sanitary locker rooms, the elaborate home economics room – all these owe their existence to the men on the school board. Thanks to these men, we now have an auditorium in which we can hold our assemblies and the junior and senior plays, instead of walking to Carnegie Library in the cold weather. Our school rooms are bright and cheerful, with an excellent lighting system. We are proud of these men, and we are sure that each class after us will be just as proud.

This picture, taken in 1897, shows the entire first group of Carnegie students, with the complete faculty of two, on the steps of the W.C.T.U. building. With it we open our portraits of the present-day upperclassmen.

Molinaro, Aston, Ilyankoff, Sperring

Senior Class Officers

That the seniors of 1956 are proud of their officers is no wonder because the officers were well-chosen, capable people with personalities to match their abilities.

Joe Aston—the tall basketball star who, in the midst of all the practices and the glory, still had time to tackle the biggest job, that of president. He proved to be an efficient, hard-working president and has had the unusual distinction of being our class president for two years.

Joe Molinaro—a very capable and busy vice president, always willing to help and full of fun. He lent a willing hand and helped quite a bit during the magazine campaign. Besides his leadership qualities, Joe can really sing and play the guitar, and long will he be remembered for his band concert solos.

Nellie Ilyankoff—the cute blond with the slow walk and talk really proved her capabilities as class secretary. Writing letters, keeping minutes, and sending thank-you notes were just a few of Nellie's tasks this year. She also was top magazine salesman, selling far over one hundred dollars' worth of magazines.

Janice Sperring—neat as a pin and quiet best describes Jan. Jan had a big job to do this year as treasurer, but whatever Jan is called on to do, you can expect it to be done well.

Senior History

Our class, the class of 1956, has been a class of firsts. In sixth grade, Fate stepped in and began to plan our destiny. Instead of being seventh graders, we became part of the new Carnegie Junior High School housed at Harding School. Ours was the first class to complete the three years of junior high. Instead of going to the high school for our freshman year, we remained at Harding to be "junior high seniors."

While at Harding, we planned and set in motion its first student council. We also began a junior high club program offering clubs such as the Tri-Hi-Y, Hi-Y, Gym Club, Drama Club, and several others. Ours was the class to have the first Carnegie Junior High School basketball team. This team, already showing themselves to be champions, had a wonderful record and traveled to the tournaments.

In tenth grade we had to take our place as the underclassmen, and our light couldn't shine as brightly as we would have liked. We did, however, institute a practice which has been adopted by every class. We elected, as a class officer, a social chairman to be in charge of all social functions of the class and see that all members of the class had an opportunity to participate in class activities. During the tenth grade Mr. Van Arsdale was our class sponsor.

During the eleventh grade, with Mr. Speziale as our sponsor, we began to hit our stride once again. We set several projects as our goal for the year. Among these were filling the library for the Spring Concert – seven hundred tickets were sold, having a superb junior prom, and collecting dues in order to have a class picnic.

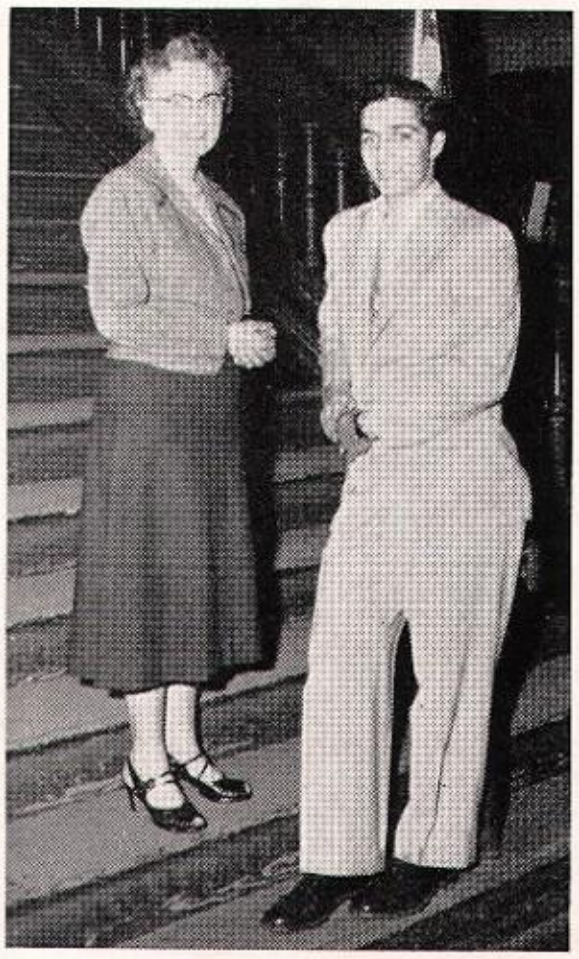
And now the climax of our efforts, our senior year! This year our sponsor is Miss Cochran. She has been sponsor of senior classes for many years, but we hoped to be co-operative to the point where she would have no worries. We are the first class to be graduated from the new building. As we had wonderful facilities in the new building, we became the first class to have two performances of the senior play and spring concert. We had a winning basketball team this year. Carnegie won twenty-three games in a row to become Section XIII champs.

Now graduation time has come. We made a wonderful record during our years of junior and senior high school, and we're proud of it. But we know that this record can be surpassed, and we offer it as a challenge to the underclassmen.

Senior Prom

December 9, 1955, was the date of our long-awaited senior prom, "The Silver Swirl." The decorations, purple-and-white streamers and a rotating purple-and-silver center-piece, helped to make it a dance we seniors shall never forget. A large sleigh and a silver-trimmed Christmas tree, very royal with its purple lights, formed the setting for pictures.

Girls in their beautiful gowns with their handsome escorts danced to the strains of Bob King's orchestra. Dainty, petite hors d'oeuvres were served, and at twelve o'clock the memorable evening came to an end. Although the purpose was not to raise money, the ball brought an added sixty-seven dollars to our class treasury.



Above are Miss Gladys Cochran, senior class sponsor, and Pete Viviano, social chairman, the boss and brains of our once-in-a-lifetime senior ball.

Queen of May

On the night of May 4, five lovely girls, chosen by popular vote of the students of Carnegie High School, marched down the aisle to the strains of a beautiful melody. Arleen Boyda, fourth attendant, was radiant and glowing in her blue gown; Dolores Soho, third attendant, looked gorgeous in her yellow gown; Frances Young, attractive second attendant, entered in a smart aqua gown; Betty Jean Soho, first attendant, breathtaking in a pink gown, looked beautiful and doll-like on the court.

As Maxine Kanoza, the Queen of May, entered, her subjects rose. Stately and regal in a white gown with a long flowing train, she was crowned, a lovely and fitting queen. Everyone will remember that night as being one of the most beautiful events of the year.

Senior Play

"Seventeenth Summer"

The senior play, "Seventeenth Summer," was presented in the auditorium of the new high school on April 5 and 6, but the activity before this date preparing for the big nights would fill a book. Practice was held every night for six weeks, but in spite of all the hard work, the cast had a lot of fun.

The romantic comedy was under the supervision of Mrs. Mary Kay Vorko, director, and Ruth Ludwig and Geraldine Boscia, her assistants. Everyone was worried that he might forget his lines, but when the curtain went up, the play met with the approval of everyone. The success of the play was due to the hard work and cooperation of the cast, director, prompters, and committees.

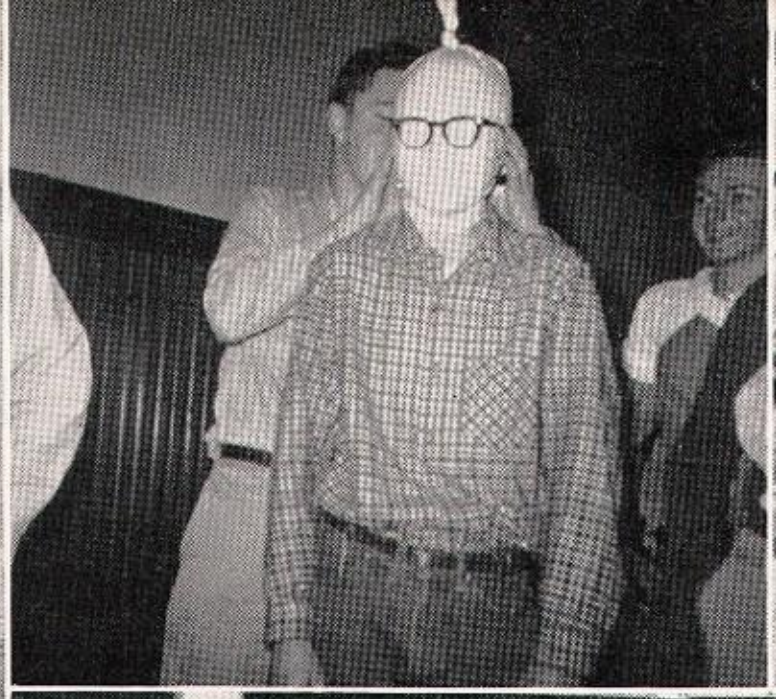
Magazine Sales

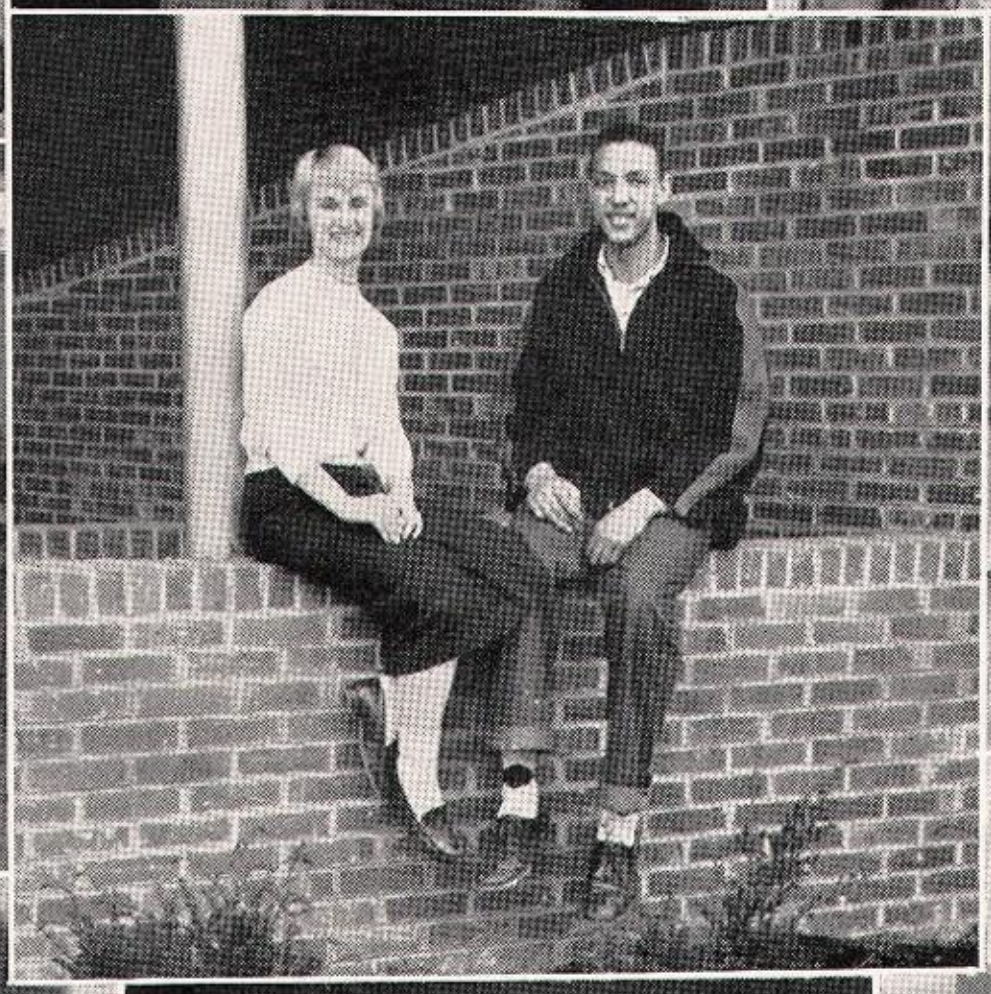
During the first week of school, the seniors began our annual magazine campaign. Everyone worked hard and tried to sell as many magazines as possible. The record of previous classes was surpassed, and we went far over our $3000 goal.

Many an evening was spent after school counting the day's receipts and straightening the records. Each room had two captains and two managers to make the work a little easier for Arleen Boyda, general manager, and Ronald Mach, treasurer. Nellie Ilyankoff was high salesman with $167, and Ruth Duff was second with $149.50. They each received well-deserved prizes. Those pictured above each sold over forty dollars' worth of magazines.

Of course this campaign would not have been the success it was without the advice and spark of Miss Cochran, who worked very hard and deserves much credit for her efforts. The total sales were $3371.77, bringing a profit of $1,058.93.

Miss Cochran, senior sponsor, who fired our ambition in all of our class projects.





UNDERCLASSMEN

For many years there was a fountain on Main Street at the foot of Beechwood Avenue. It was at first used as a watering trough for horses before horseless carriages came into existence, but for many years afterwards it was used as a place of sport and fun, at least for the senior boys of Carnegie High. Here the freshmen had to go through the ordeal of being formally initiated into C. H. S. by ducking. The ducking was done in fun, however, and is still remembered by the older alumni.

Even though it has not been in existence for many years, the fountain holds clear memories for many; and for us who have never seen it, the "ducking stool" can be as vivid, by means of pictures and of tales, as it was to students of a few years ago.

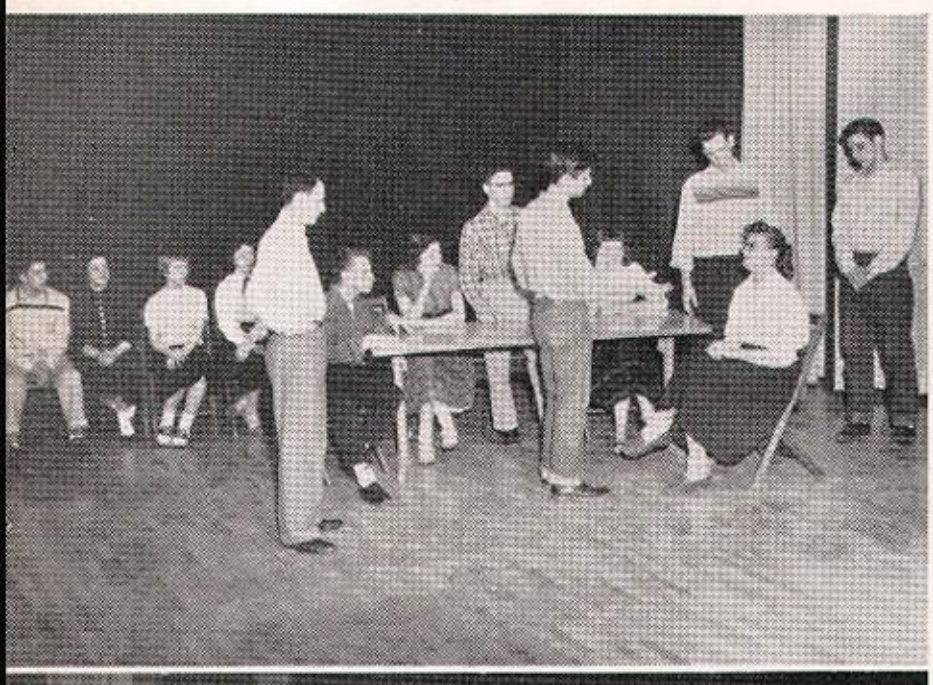
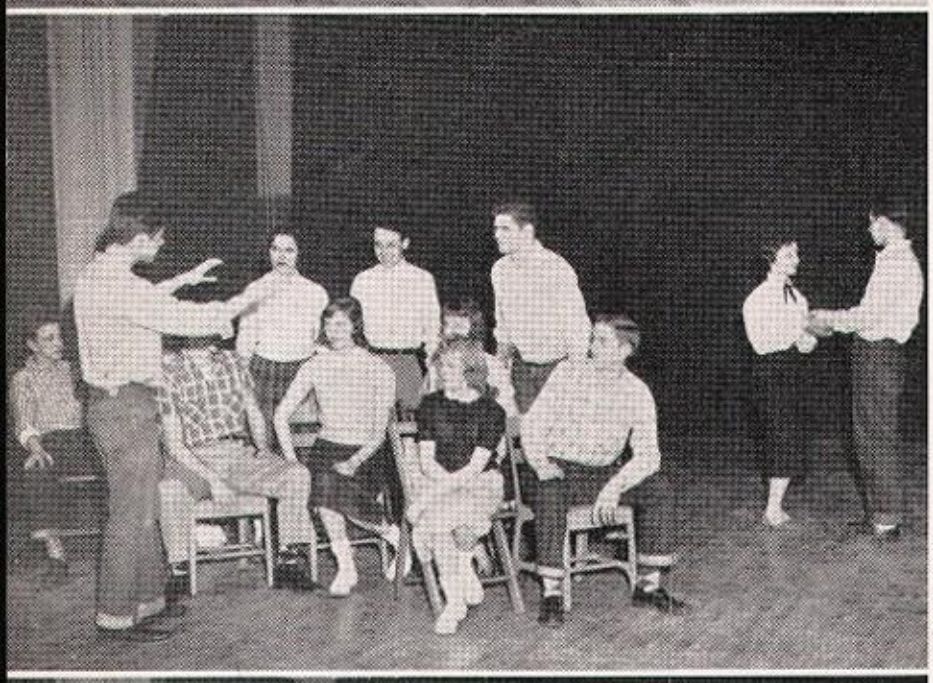
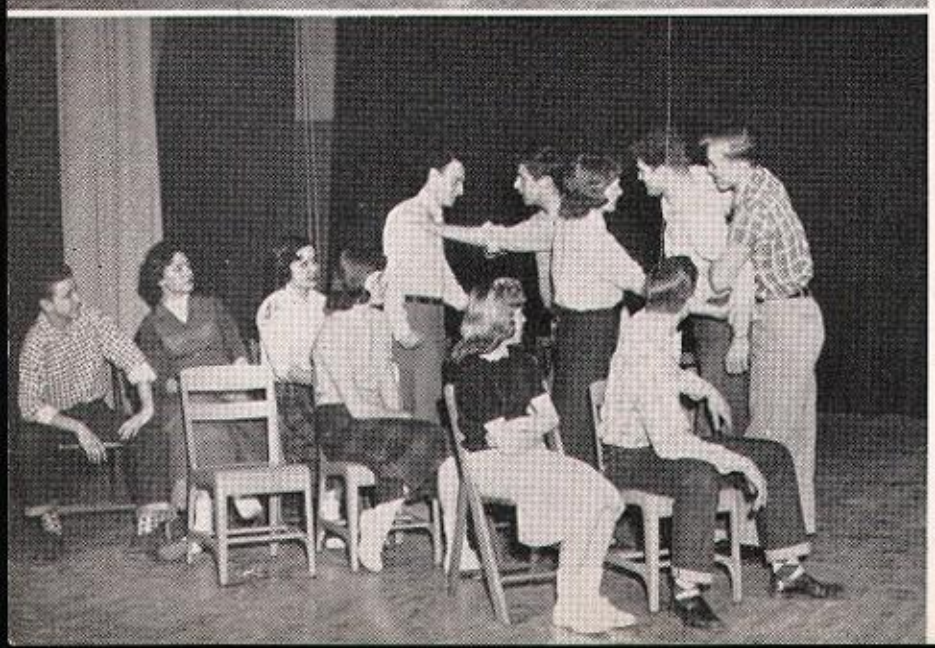
"The Remarkable Incident at Carson's Corner"







"The Remarkable Incident at Carson's Corner," presented by the junior class under the guidance of Mr. William Stout, was the first play to be dramatized in the new Carnegie High auditorium.

The story is about a mock trial put on by a group of high school students which turns out to be a serious episode involving the entire community. The janitor is blamed for the killing of a young boy who might have accidentally fallen through the railing on the steps of the school.

The action of the play reveals that responsibility for the accident is shared by the entire community.

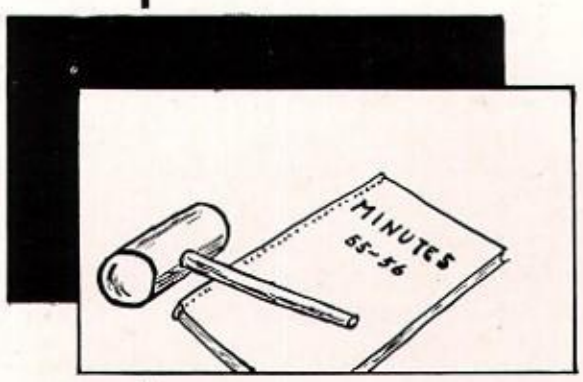
In Memoriam

"Mr. G.," as he was better known to us all, was born in Monongahela, Pennsylvania, and educated in the schools of that community. He was graduated from Kansas University, and then went on to complete his master's degree in education at Duquesne University. At the time of his death he was working toward his doctorate at that school.

Mr. Giannangelo's coaching career began at his alma mater, Kansas University, where he coached freshman football. He continued in the same capacity at Kansas State Teachers' College in Emporia, Kansas. During World War II he was trainer with the Second Air Force football team. In moving to this area, Mr. Giannangelo coached all sports at the Pennsylvania Training School at Morganza. Prior to coming to Carnegie eight years ago, he coached at Snowden Township. In addition to his duties as football coach in Carnegie he became basketball mentor in 1951.

Known as a willing, indefatigable worker, Mr. Giannangelo gave nothing less than his best. He imparted to his players the ideals of fair play, good sportsmanship, and gentlemanly qualities. "Try to win, but if you have to lose, lose like gentlemen," was his philosophy. A successful coach, he hit his pinnacles during the year 1952, when his football team won all games, and the present year, 1956, when his basketball team won twenty-three consecutive victories and its sectional championship.

Students, teachers, townspeople – all have lost a devoted friend. We who have been so closely allied with him know that we have lost a respected coach, a wise counselor, and a trusted leader. May we, in the years to come, never lose sight of the good he inspired in us.



ACTIVITIES

Many things can change in sixty years. Buildings can crumble, great men can live and die, generations can pass. But one thing remains the same. Today, as sixty years ago, high school days still hold moments of relaxation, fun, romance, and hard play.

Here, in the thirty-third issue of the VOYAGER, are the time, effort, and ability of twenty-eight hard-working members of C. H. S. When this book will be just a reminder, a diary, to some, it will be more to us on the staff, who gave a little of ourselves to it. How can we forget the last-minute work on the alumni directory, the confusion of taking pictures, the excitement of examining proofs? Of course, there will also be memories of losing sleep for good copy, the tremendous amount of research for such a historical issue, the often tedious job of copy-reading, and the unending mountain of typing. With a good crew the VOYAGER completes another bon voyage.

We were happy to add an additional two pages to the junior high section and add a member of its student council, Shirley Black, as representative, although somewhat late in the year.

The See Staff

The SEE, our bi-weekly newspaper, has rounded out its nineteenth year of publication. Anytime you hear a buzzing in the office practice room, you can also find Spike and Daeg knee-deep in papers. The SEE tells of scholastic events and the antics of the entire student body. The ink-spattered mechanical operator torments the poor innocent artists, typists, and journalists, but amid all of this confusion the SEE is ready to be distributed to the appreciative student body. There is never rest for the busy members of the SEE staff. Without the sponsorship of Miss Mason and the expectations of its editors, Daeg Brenner and Robert Reynolds, the SEE would not be the fine paper that it is.

Behind them the staff of 1955-56 has left a year of hard work, and to future workers of the SEE they bequeath the best of memories, the highest of ambitions, and hopes for success in the future.

Student Council

Last year the governmental body of Carnegie, known as the Student Faculty, was disbanded. A planning committee was therefore elected last fall to lay the foundation for a new Student Council. As time passed, this planning committee itself became known as the Student Council. It consists of homeroom representatives, plus the class presidents, the seniors having the majority of membership. The Student Council has spent the past year wholly upon the process of organization and preparation. A committee was chosen to draft a constitution. The framework for this law was developed in as democratic a way as possible under the constant supervision and aid of its sponsor, Miss Janet Curtis. Its major aim is for the improvement of the student and the school, and it will constantly strive to serve the student community in a democratic manner.

The purpose of the Student Council is very accurately put forth in the preamble of its constitution. It states: "We, the students and faculty of the Carnegie Senior High School, in order to create and foster a spirit of understanding and cooperation with each other; to develop character, initiative, and leadership; to afford training in citizenship; to foster advancement in scholarship, in school spirit, and in ideals of friendliness, fair play, and loyalty; to provide for pupil expression; and to promote active cooperation in all school activities do ordain and establish this Constitution for the Carnegie Senior High School."

National Honor Society

President ..... Michael Morelli
Vice-president ..... Arleen Boyda
Secretary ..... Jacqueline Nadolny
Sponsor ..... Miss Gladys Nordsiek

Although having but one activity, the National Honor Society is the most honored and respected group at Carnegie. Election of new members usually takes place at the end of the first semester; however, due to getting settled in the new school, they were not chosen until March. It is the goal of every student to be in this organization. Members, chosen by the faculty, are selected for their high standards of leadership, scholarship, service, and honor. Its one activity is an impressive induction service held the week of graduation. The seniors wear caps and gowns and after the ceremony, the members serve their parents and friends refreshments.

The Honor Society pin is made up of a keystone and a flaming torch. The motto of the society is "Noblesse oblige," meaning superiority has obligations. As Miss Nesbitt, the former sponsor, retired last year, Miss Nordseik was selected as the new sponsor. Under her careful guidance the Honor Society continues to broaden the fine reputation it has maintained throughout the years of its existence.

Sponsors ..... Mrs. Helen Brenner

The Delta Tri-Hi-Y is one of the most popular and active all-girl organizations of C. H. S. This club is sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. Its main purpose is to promote Christian ideals. The many activities that this club provides are: convocation service at Heinz Memorial Chapel, council meetings, swimming and dancing at the Y. M. C. A., and a wonderful week-end of fun at officers' training camp in Grove City. The activities of the club are financed by the selling of Christmas cards, a bake sale, and the annual May Queen dance. Each year the girls contribute to the World Service Fund, and at the Christmas party they bring toys which are later given to the orphanage. This year the club is very happy to have two wonderful co-sponsors, Mrs. Helen Brenner and Mrs. Mary Vorko. They helped to make this club one of the finest and most outstanding clubs in the school.

Sponsor ..... Mr. William Stout

All the Y groups at Carnegie are affiliated with the Downtown Y.M.C.A., and Mr. Bowden, director of its youth department, has successfully fitted each club into an active program. In recent years, the Hi-Y clubs have become more social, but they still perform a few services to the school.

Ray Florence represented the Original Hi-Y in Harrisburg at the state convention in March. Then, after weeks of planning, the joint Hi-Y dance was held April 20, a fitting climax to a very busy year.

The Golden Rule Tri-Hi-Y, an outstanding organization of C. H. S., is directed by Miss Barbara Williams. The club is affiliated with the Y. M. C. A. The many activities sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. include council meetings attended by the club representatives, convocation at Heinz Chapel, and a week-end at officers' training camp. The club's main purpose is to create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, school, and community high standards of Christian character. An illustration of such conduct is the Christmas practice of sending CARE packages and giving canned foods and a turkey to the Salvation Army. The club has two meetings a month; one is a business meeting and the other a social meeting. The social affair of the year was the May Queen Dance in the spring.

Novus Hi-Y

The Hi-Y, more like a fraternity than any other group, has strict membership rules and often holds closed dances. The initiations, unlike the usual rituals, are solemn and meaningful. Unfortunately, the weekend at Camp Kon-O-Kwee and Older Boys' Conference were both cancelled, but six dances, a hay ride, intramural sports, and service projects kept the Novus Hi-Y members busy all through the year.

Carl Davis, president of the Downtown Council of Hi-Y's and Tri-Hi-Y's, represented our club in Harrisburg at the state convention held in March.

Dramateur Club

President	Raymond Florence
Vice-president	Robert Reynolds
Secretary	Ruth Ludwig
Treasurer	Emma Speca
Sponsor	Miss Dolores Dombrowski

A popular club in the high school is the Dramateur Club, sponsored by Miss Dolores Dombrowski, who last year as a senior held the office of club secretary. Its old members select the new ones, who display their dramatic ability by performing in a skit or pantomime. The most exciting event of the year is the initiation of new members.

During the year the members of the club usually attend a play at Carnegie Tech. At the end of the year the Drama Club held a grand picnic for all the members and guests. Those who are fortunate enough to become members of the Dramateur Club will never forget the wonderful times that they have had.

Camera Club

President ..... Zayne Wilk
Vice-president ..... Daeg Brenner
Secretary ..... Mary Jo Walker
Treasurer ..... David Mitry
Sergeant-at-Arms ..... Peter Viviano
Sponsor ..... Mr. Melvin Burkett

The Camera Club, under the expert guidance of Mr. Burkett, is one of the more progressive clubs in Carnegie High. Its function is to teach members the fundamentals of photography, including the development of film and printing and enlarging of pictures, and to purchase photographic equipment. Mr. Burkett is a very able and dependable sponsor because of his thorough knowledge of the subject of photography. The new darkroom is completely equipped to meet the needs of each member.

The most exciting event of the year – that is, for the old members – is the night of initiations. The club has lived up to its notorious reputation of having the most sickening of all induction rites.

This year, with Zayne Wilk as their very able president, the shutterbugs enjoyed an active, successful year.

Rifle Club

President	Ronald Hutchison
Vice-president	Ken Szafranski
Executive Officer	Ronald Steranko
Secretary	Stephen Kopko
Treasurer	Denny McLaughlin
Sponsor	Mr. Harold Hartley

The Rifle Club, one of the newer clubs, was organized in 1947. Mr. Robb was the sponsor. This year the job went to Mr. Harold Hartley. To gain admittance to the club, each person is given a test of firing ten shots. The persons with the highest scores are eligible. Each year matches are held with other schools. This year, for its social event, the Rifle Club, along with the newly formed Biology Club, sponsored a dance—Winter Wonderland. The dance proceeds are to be used for new equipment. The purpose of this is instructing persons who are interested in knowing the proper use and the parts of a gun. They also learn the positions for firing – prone, offhand, sitting, and kneeling.

French-Spanish Club

President	Joseph Dziadura
Vice-president	Lloyd Wineland
Secretary	Dianne Corbett
Treasurer	Joseph Hladik
Sponsor	Mr. William Palonis

The club formerly known as the French Club reorganized this year to form the new French-Spanish Club. Its purpose is to better the understanding of the French and Spanish ways of living. In order to be eligible for membership, persons interested must be taking either French or Spanish at the time of application.

The club has thirty members, each of whom has been approved by the sponsor. New members are accepted in formal induction services led by the officers. Meetings are held once a month. Each year two social events are usually held – a dance and a picnic. Unfortunately, this year's dance, planned to be called the "Mardi Gras" had to be cancelled.

These future secretaries and business women of America are celebrating their silver anniversary this year. For twenty-five years the commercial students have been organized in a social club. This year they sponsored a spaghetti dinner that will long be remembered at C. H. S. The cafeteria was changed into a beautiful dining room by the magical touch of these girls. Although not much profit was made, a new type of club project was originated. These efficient hard-working girls are sponsored by Miss Jane Boyle.

Choir

The Choir is the largest choral group in C.H.S., composed of sopranos, altos, baritones, tenors, and basses. The choir, as well as the G-Clef and Glee Club, is under the direction of Mr. John Bandyk. The group has provided musical entertainment at the Christmas program, P. T. A. meetings, the dedication service for the new high school, and the annual spring concert. Choir has rehearsals every Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday during the fourth period. This year seven members of the Choir represented Carnegie High School in the Allegheny County Chorus. Every member works together to help make the Choir an outstanding group in C. H. S. On the nights of April 26 and 27, the many hours of hard work and training are displayed at the annual Spring Concert. Mary Jo Walker accompanies the choir on the piano and organ.

Band

Under the supervision of Mr. Walter H. Cameron, the sixty-piece band has completed another year of practicing and performing. It was heard and seen at football games, at pep rallies, in the Hallowe'en parade, and Christmas caroling. The most important event, of course, was the annual concert, featuring the much-practiced marches and light classics. The Swing Band took over in the second half of this concert, along with our talented student acts.

Finally, after the Memorial Day parade, the seniors, after waiting four years, enjoyed a delicious spaghetti dinner, putting a close to years of practice, bus rides, and performing.

With practically the entire Swing Band being graduated, we wish the band luck in its concert next year, with these words, taken from a senior band member's essay on music: " . . . Music is what you think music is. From the tom-tom-beaters in Africa and from the string section of the New York Philharmonic, music flows. So remember, the next time you hear the Carnegie High School Band playing – music can be anything."

Mr. Walter H. Cameron, band director for 27 years, has studied at the Carnegie Institute of Technology, the University of Pittsburgh, Columbia University, and at the New York Institute of Musical Art. He has played under John Philip Sousa for 10 years.

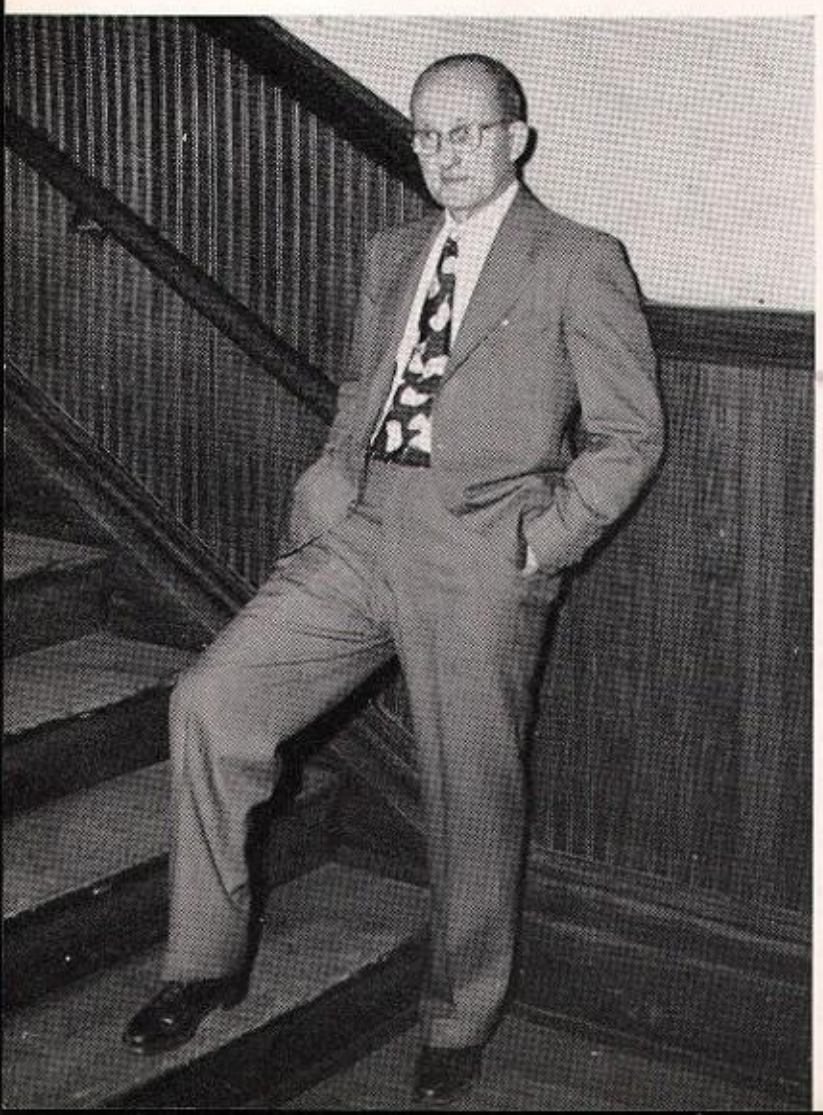
Athletic Association

Mr. J. Arthur Adams



The Athletic Association, through the athletic director, schedules all inter-scholastic sports activities and promotes student competition through the school's sports program. In the group are the various coaches, school administrators, and physical education instructors.

J. Arthur Adams, after twenty-nine years at Carnegie High School, is retiring as athletic director and physical education instructor. During his first two years at C. H. S., 1927-1928, he coached football; and from 1927 through 1950 he was coach of the baseball and basketball squads. In 1950 his basketball team won the Class B section title.

He attended Ursinus College, where he received his Bachelor of Arts degree; he received his Master of Arts degree at the University of Pittsburgh, and has done special work in physical education at Penn State. Before coming to Carnegie, Mr. Adams taught at Clearfield, McKeesport, and Crafton, Pa.

The boys will miss his famous "Up and over," and "Three minutes," and we all wish him the best of luck in whatever he may do. The VOYAGER pays tribute to a great man, Mr. Adams.

After earning a letter in a sport at Carnegie, membership in the Varsity "C" comes automatically. The major purpose of the group is to raise money for the injury fund. This year the club held its second annual masquerade dance with a floor show directed by its sponsor, Mr. R. Zaney. It was quite a sight to see Romano pantomiming in shorts and Mitry leading a chorus line.

The Varsity "C" also played the faculty in a basketball game, and after a hilarious free-for-all the teachers emerged victors, 34-22.

Football

Mr. G., working with the 37 varsity gridiron enthusiasts last fall, came up with a starting line-up of 192 pounds' average weight in the line and a "big and speedy back" of 178.

September 9. Carnegie opened the season with Elizabeth. The Carnegie Tartans played a remarkable game, with three touchdowns scored by Bob Michigan, a 160-pound freshman, on three runs—47, 27, and 4 yards. Joe Klim scored from the one-yard line, and Ron Hatcher scored from the eight-yard line. Elizabeth scored once in the final minutes of the game.

September 16. When Carnegie clashed for their second game of the season, they were defeated by McKees Rocks. It was a nip-and-tuck game all the way until the Rocks broke things up with a pass from Kourachi, the Rock's quarterback, to Schneider, the halfback, that was good for 65 yards and a touchdown. At the end of the first half, the downhearted Tartans were behind 7-0. In the third quarter, Kourachi, after leading his team for a 60-yard march, scored from the two-yard line to double the Rocks' score. Carnegie, still playing hard, scored once in the final quarter, with Wrobleski going over from the two-yard line.

Strategy: Coaches Stockum and Zaney with the headman, Mr. G.

Half time in the Little Tartans' dressing room. Time for food, rest, and talks.

September 23. Carnegie suffered its second loss to Dormont in our third game of the season. Carnegie had two long runs, one by Ron Hatcher for 50 yards and one by Bob Michigan for 70 yards, but could not score. Dormont's right halfback scored two times with an 81-yard run and a plunge from the three-yard line.

September 30. Carnegie won their second game of the year by defeating Moon Township. Touchdowns were scored by Ron Hatcher on a 70-yard run and a one-yard dive over center. Hatcher also passed 19 yards to Bob Boyda for another touchdown. Bob Michigan scored twice from about two yards out. Glatz, the quarterback for Moon, scored both times, on 60-yard and 4-yard runs.

October 7. Stowe Township, a small team, outplayed Carnegie and beat them. Bob Michigan, the freshman star for Carnegie, scored a touchdown on a 10-yard run. Roger Kessler, a 6-foot, 175-pound junior, scored on a 20-yard another touchdown. Bob Michigan scored twice on quarterback sneaks. George and Santillo also scored for Stowe.

October 14. Carnegie defeated Bridgeville to chalk up their third win to three losses. The freshman star, Bob Michigan, scored Carnegie's first touchdown on a 12-yard run. Ron Hatcher scored Carnegie's second on a one-yard run. The right halfback for Bridgeville scored on a 10-yard run. The boys played on a wet field, which kept the long runs down.

October 21. Glassport High School scored a victory over Carnegie at Glassport to give Carnegie their fourth loss. Tom Korposh, Tom Bair, and Rich Lucas scored their touchdowns. Ron Hatcher, the sophomore quarterback, scored Carnegie's only touchdown late in the last period on a seven-yard drive. Hatcher then kicked the extra point to give Carnegie their seven points.

October 28. Carnegie won their fourth game by defeating Shaler here in Carnegie. Ron Hatcher, the sophomore star, scored three times—from the 10-, 4-, and 2-yard lines, for a total of 18 points. Pete Romano, right tackle for Carnegie, went into the fullback slot and made one of three extra points. Shaler was out-played the entire game. This gave Carnegie four wins to four losses.

November 4. By defeating Crafton, Carnegie gained a record of five wins to four losses. Bob Michigan scored for Carnegie with a 15-yard run. Duda scored twice for Crafton—once on an uninterrupted pass for 90 yards, and again on a down-field march from the six-yard line. Late in the game, with two minutes to play and Carnegie trailing 12-6, Sam Peluso, the junior quarterback, faded back and threw a 40-yard pass to Joe Wrobleski for a touchdown. Pete Romano ran the extra point to give Carnegie a 13-12 victory.

November 11. Carnegie, playing their last game of the year, was beaten and outplayed by the small but strong Golden Bears of Scott Township. In the first half, Scott scored three times, with touchdowns by Stanton, scoring on a 50-yard run; by Volk, with a 30-yard run; and by Arbuckle, with a 15-yard run. The second half showed Scott scoring again on a quarterback sneak by Volk and an eight-yard run by Morrys, to give Scott their 34 points. One long run was made by Ron Hatcher for about 60 yards, but the Tartans were unable to score.

The Little Tartans finished their season with five wins to five losses.

Mary Jo Walker — One gal who was really faithful: didn't miss any games in her three years of cheering . . . known for the crazy faces she makes.

Frances Young — Fran has been cheerleader for two years and has loved every exciting minute of it . . . we all know she'll be missed next year.

The basketball records of Carnegie were completely smashed the day the terrific 1956 team went on the floor. The "Little" Tartans won twenty-three games in a row before losing to Farrell in the semi-finals of WPIAL tournament. During that twenty-three winning streak the Tartans set five new records:

The most points scored in one season	1,545
The most points scored in one game	102
Individual high by Joseph Aston	545
Individual high in one game by Joseph Aston	42

The only team to play a full schedule undefeated.

Joe Aston, a 6′ 4″ senior, is a three-year letterman and has a total of 1,261 points for his three years. This lad was a sensational standout throughout the year, and at the tournament he was said to be one of the finest ball players since 1954.

Don Steinhart, a 6′ 5″ senior, scored 350 points during the year and did a good job helping Joe under the basket in bringing down rebounds. Don averaged 14.6 points per game.

"Handy" Andy Cubic, a 6′ 2″ senior, scored 334 points during the season and played defense with ease and coolness. Andy could jump high for his height and gave a lot of help under the boards.

Nick Nicoletta, a six-foot senior, scored 191 points for the year. Nick was the smallest man on the squad and the playmaker. With his constant harassing he managed to steal the ball many times on defense.

Merv Bailey, 6′ 3″ and the only junior on the team, scored 307 points during the season. He was another outside man with Nick. Merv played defense like a hawk, and his shrewd defensive work led him to steal the ball many times.

Other ball players on the club were John Stack, 5′ 11″ senior; Mike Morelli, 5′ 10″ senior; Bruce Mach, 6′ 3″ junior; and John Sawhill, 6′ 2″ junior. These boys were always ready to help the first string, and their moral support played an important part in the winning of the games.

We congratulate the 1956 Section XIII champs on a fine season.

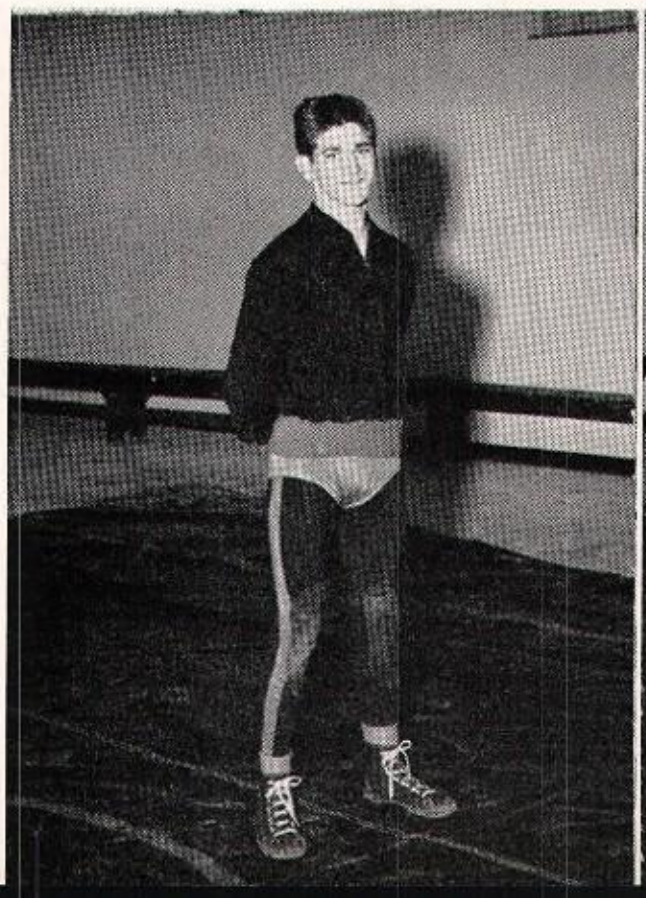
Wrestling

The 1956 wrestling team ended their season with a meager record of one win to eight losses. Coached by Mr. Robert R. Sawhill, the team seemed to lack spark and initiative. Also against them was the fact that they had only three veterans returning from last year.

Fred Sentner, a four-year letterman, ended his last season in the final round of section competition. James Shearer, three-year letterman, ended the year in the semi-finals of regional competition. With only one member graduating, we can look forward to an experienced squad next year.

Coach of the Tartan matmen, Robert R. Sawhill, and Fred Sentner.



Fred Sentner, only senior on the squad, is the last of a long line of wrestling Sentners. Last year Freddie entered state competition at Pennsylvania State University.

Baseball

The 1956 baseball team, with a few veterans plus a few rookies with a lot of playing ability, should have a prosperous season. The center attractions will probably be Andy Cubic, Jim Torchia, Mike Morelli, John Walasik, and Ron Hatcher. The early practices showed a lot of desire, ambition, and ability.

In 1954 Mr. Stockum brought a section title to Carnegie, and last year's team ended with a record of four wins to four losses.

Last year the team ended with a 5-5 record, winning over Robinson and North Allegheny twice, splitting two games with Avonworth, and losing to West View and Bridgeville.

This year only one starter, Nicoletta, a three-year letterman, is back; but there are great prospects in John Sawhill and Ronald Geisler. With the fine coaching of John Bandyk the team should do fairly well. Other possibilities for the team are Don Steinhart, Anthony Ragazzo, John Stack, and Lee Bradley.

The Girls' Athletic Association is the largest single club in Carnegie High, and its purpose is to develop and maintain sportsmanship in competition. During the football season the girls sell refreshments at the home games. They also have basketball and volleyball teams, which are selected by Miss Greschner. These teams set an example of ability and health. In the spring the G.A.A. has its annual mother-and-daughter banquet, which is a gala affair where the mothers are honored by the girls. Membership is open to girls interested in sports and, if they prove themselves, they may receive a letter an as award.

Girls' Volleyball

Early in October, the girls in Miss Greshner's gym classes brushed up on their volleyball "tactics." Among other points, they were taught to "set-em-up" and to rotate their line. After they had mastered the technique, each gym class was divided into three or four teams. During class, they competed with each other.

A short time later, each homeroom met and picked a captain for their respective teams. These teams were scheduled for play each night after school. By the process of elimination, Room 204 emerged victorious. Room 210 put up a gallant effort to stop them, but the champs were not to be denied. They re-received a golden trophy to place in their room in recognition of their standing.

When the plans for this VOYAGER were being made, it was hoped a complete alumni directory could be included. A tremendous amount of work was done in compiling this directory. The alumni representatives devoted their entire summer to the job of locating the missing 3,600 Carnegie alumni. Later the entire staff joined in the job.

However, as the deadline for the yearbook approached, the directory was still not complete. We tried to the last minute to include a directory in this VOYAGER but, rather than include here a faulty, incomplete directory, we finally had to abandon that hope. As the next best thing, we have continued working on this directory and will publish a complete and accurate alumni directory during the summer, probably during the month of July. This supplement will be immediately sent to each subscriber of the 1956 VOYAGER.

The Junior High at Harding

Mr. Kenneth Logan, a former math teacher at C.H.S., is now principal of Harding School. Acting as advisor of all school activities, he is always willing to help any of the students and has fast become very popular and respected among the students.

The Student Council, consisting of two students from each home room, meets each Wednesday. This group has many activities, but the main social affairs are dances and skating parties. Also candy and peanuts are sold at the basketball games and during the lunch hour. The money made is used for gifts to the school. The Student Council tries to create and foster a spirit of understanding and co-operation among the students.
